

I would ask you to please keep the telephone privacy acts in effect. I am a stay at home mom who was plagued by up to 7 or 8 phone calls per day from telemarketers. This created a great deal of stress for me. Calls would continue even after I had asked to be taken off the company's call list. At times, the telemarketer would be rude, continuing to talk even after I had said I was not interested and leaving me no choice but to hang up. I now go entire days without a phone call from a telemarketer. It has been one of the best things that has ever happened for my quality of life. Please do not overrule this law! Thank you.
